

CHANGE IN WEATHER IS RIPENING GRAIN

Crops Now Showing Effect--
Cutting Strains in Several Sections--Will be General
Next Week--Outlook Good

Weather conditions have greatly improved during the past week. We have been having the good old sunny Alberta days and as a result one can almost see the changes in the grain from day to day.

Already farmers in different sections around here have started cutting wheat. Bedford brothers and J. C. Larson, north of town, and A. J. Postland and M. Philpott, of the Howell district, started early this week. They all have excellent crops and most of them are of the opinion that they will turn out just as good if not better than last year.

On the whole prospects are most encouraging and cutting will be in full swing all next week.

Although the possibility of some setback is not altogether ruled out, the favorable change in the weather has brought with it a reasonable assurance that another bumper crop will be reaped in this district.

This being the case, together with the present state of the wheat market, it is only fair to believe that the conditions in this district, at least so far as the farmers are concerned, will be even better than last year.

The average price of wheat, year in and year out, in the province of Alberta, is about 75 cents a bushel, and the average cost of production is about 50 cents a bushel, and the average yield about 20 bushels to the acre, making a profit of about $5.00 per acre. But last year the average price was over $1.00 per bushel, a profit of 50 cents a bushel, and the yield was 20 bushels to the acre, or a profit of $10.00 per acre for that one year.

This year's price average is to be at least $1.40, which means a profit of 90 cents a bushel, and the average yield not less than 25 bushels an acre, which would be a profit of $22.50 an acre, and would yield the farmer greater profit than last year.

If nothing serious happens before this crop is securely garnered in the farmers of this district will have as great a profit in the last two years in any previous ordinary eight years in Alberta or any other wheat growing country.

Dept. of Agriculture Gets Farm Laborers

The Department of Agriculture for the province has completed its organization to meet the problem of harvest help. At a meeting in Winnipeg at the end of July, a representative of the Alberta Department of Agriculture and Livestock of the province of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, met the premier agents of the three transcontinental railways and made arrangements for the distribution of harvest hands at reduced rates in all three provinces.

The railway companies will offer special rates for harvesters' excursions from the east from August 10 to 22 and for threshers from August 29 to September 5. Consideration for the transportation of laborers within the province have likewise been secured. The rate both for the transportation of laborers and for the point to another within the province is one cent per mile, with a minimum of one dollar and fifty cents. It is estimated that 10,000 laborers are required in Alberta.

Charles S. Hothelink, chief publicity agent, department of agriculture, will answer all enquiries and requests.

Portugal Wants to Get in the Game

The Portuguese minister of war says that Portugal being in a state of war with Germany and Austria must take part in the war in the most direct form and in a fraternity of arms. He says:

"We are preparing with all our forces to take this direct part in the fighting. The mobilization of the army was received with enthusiasm and has not developed one deserter, and we are continuing to raise men."

A. B. Clow is Still Unfit For Service

Mr. F. Batel received a letter this week from A. B. Clow, one of our townsmen who has been doing his bit on the battlefield. Mr. Clow was with the British forces at Gallipoli but was invalided home suffering from lack of fever. He had been in a hospital in Scotland for six months but is now convalescing. He applied for a commission recently but the medical examiner would not pass him and he was ordered to return to his home. He says his brother, Dave, is still fighting the Turks in the desert, and beyond suffering from the heat and flies, is having good health.

Cheerful Signs of The Allies' Victories

A war correspondent of the New York Tribune writes the following encouraging letter concerning the present condition at the front:

"The allied forces have now driven their wedge eastward far enough to menace seriously the German sea communications. Gallipoli, the Marne, and Clerly will fall with the next thrust. The British, while the French and the Italians are pushing forward, night, pushed on by the Guillemin at a 300-yard line."

London sees extremely cheerful signs in the allied victories. The advance proves that offensive ability still rests in a large degree with the allies and maintains that after seven weeks of almost incessant battle they were able to execute the brilliant plan which helped to strangle their life in the Cambes-Pervene sector.

"So far the greatest value of the system offensive has been to compel Germany to concentrate large forces there, enabling the allies to strike successful blows at other points. However, this scheme has worked out in shown clearly in the results in southern Russia, on the Caruso, and at Verdun."

"On the whole, the British people and military leaders are most satisfied with the results at Clerly because they realize best the strength of their opponents."

Believed Rumania Will Join The Allies

Paris and London papers comment at length on the possibility of Rumania joining in the war. Meetings that are in progress in Bucharest are expected to settle all the various developments in the situation are being seriously considered, and the general issue of the common cause that the decisive moment for Rumania's action has arrived.

Operations of the Bulgarian armies in Macedonia are interpreted in some quarters as having been undertaken solely with a view to influencing the decision of Rumania. On all sides it is agreed that a new phase in Balkan history is opening.

The statement is made on good authority that the number of Rumanian troops that can be mobilized exceeds 600,000, and that the army is in the best of condition after long preparation.

Not To Interfere With Threshers' Lien

In the matter of allowing threshing machines to thresh grain upon which seed grain liens are attached, the Department of the Interior has decided not to insist. In the past, grain claims over the charges of threshers. Those interested in getting official information may communicate with Mr. W. W. Carr, deputy minister of the interior, Ottawa, or with the Attorney-General's Department, Edmonton.

The British government has concluded arrangements for financing the war by the issue of war bonds, valued at $10,000,000, by means of bills drawn on prominent British banks. These bills will be offered in the discount market, which fact caused rates to display a firmer tendency.

ANOTHER REDGLIFF BOY MAKES SUPREME SACRIFICE

ALFRED J. CANN
Eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cann of this town, who was killed in action on August 12th.

British Make Gains On 11 Mile Front

A dispatch from the Reuters correspondent on the British front in France says:

"The week-end fighting developed into one of the most important and successful battles of the western offensive. Not only is our progress toward the complete mastery of the ridge highly satisfactory, but we have captured about 1,000 officers and men, many machine guns and an good deal of material. Several strong points have been destroyed and the way has been prepared for further progress."

"In the neighborhood of the Leicqz road, the Mouquet farm and Martignich we met with much success. The enemy organized several strong counter-attacks, which, with one exception, were dispersed with heavy losses."

The British have advanced along a front of 11 miles, capturing a ridge overlooking Thiepval, a high ground north of Pozières and a half mile of trenches west of High Wood, according to the official statement issued by the war office. They captured 700 prisoners in these operations.

Russians Start
Drive on Kovel

RUSSIANS START
In the east the Russians are anxiously centering their efforts on their new drive toward Kovel. Russian troops have crossed the Stokhod at one point, and Petrograd says that the Russians have pushed on beyond the river and captured a series of heights on the road to Kovel. Fierce fighting continues on the crest of the Carpathians, where the Russians are halting within sight of the Hungarian plains. No invasion has been given, however, of the strength of the forces engaged in this region, and it is uncertain as yet whether General Brusiloff is making serious effort to invade Hungary.

Liberal Elected
In S. W. Toronto

In one of the most peculiar election contests ever held in the province of Ontario, Hartley Dewar was elected in S. W. Toronto as a major of 441. While always a Liberal Dewar refused to accept the "banish-the-war" platform of Leader Rowell, and for that reason was opposed by the Liberal newspapers, the split resulting in another Liberal taking the field. Mr. Dewar's nearest rival was George Morris, who, while running as a Conservative, also declined to endorse the prohibition plank in the Liberal policy. Dewar's plurality over Morris is 641, and he had a lead over all three opponents of 67.

This is the first time in twenty-seven years a Liberal has been elected for this seat.

The Germans are about to launch a naval attack in the Baltic near the Riga section, according to Reuters reports.

Harvesters in large numbers continue to arrive in Winnipeg by train, leaving arriving from Ontario on the Grand Trunk Sunday morning and on the C. P. H.

ALFRED CANN LOSES HIS LIFE AT THE FRONT

Was Former Redgliff Boy--
Parents Still Reside Here--
Regiment.

With the number of men Redgliff now has at the front it is only natural that we may expect to see the names of some of them appearing in the casualty lists from time to time. Unfortunately they are appearing quite regularly lately.

The latest message to come and bring sadness to another Redgliff home was the following to his mother telling of the death of Alfred Cann:

"Deeply regret to inform you 119, 543 Private Alfred John Cann, infantry, officially reported killed in action August 12th."

"Office of the Canadian Recording office."

Mrs. Cann received this message on Monday morning.

Cann was a fine young man in the spring time of life and was of the constitution and character which goes to make up a strong manhood and a strong will. He was born in St. Paul, twenty-three years ago and was among the first young men to come to Redgliff. He was in the army for five years ago when he came to work in the Brick & Coal plant. Being impressed with the prospects for the future development of the town he went for his father and eldest brother who were followed soon after by his mother and the rest of the family, all of whom still reside here.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war he went to Toronto where he joined the 75th battalion.

With this battalion he went to England last March and in June he went to France to take his place in the trenches. He had been there ever since and had escaped any mishap until the wound which caused his death.

During his sojourn in Redgliff he was a most staunch friend to whom the news of his sudden and untimely death came as a severe shock. Besides his parents' deceased had been in the army for five years and are extended the heart-felt sympathy of the entire community in their sad loss.

Why They Do Not Sue For Peace Now

With the Austrians retreating in the east and with the Germans slowly but surely retreating in the west, and having near prospects for reverting to the offensive after the disaster of Verdun, many persons would ask why should they not sue for peace and end this business even if they should have to pay for an indemnity.

Well, the best way of getting at the problem of why Germany would fight on is by studying the minimum terms of peace that the allies would exact. In the west Britain would demand the cessation of German colonies, the evacuation and indemnification of Belgium for all that she has suffered, the annexation of German territory to Belgium to give her a defensible frontier. France would certainly demand the restoration of Alsace-Lorraine, the annexation of certain coal areas taken from her and ceded to Prussia in 1915, and an adequate indemnity. In the east Russia would demand the restoration of Poland to its old boundaries to form autonomous state. That would involve the cessation of Galicia, Poland and West Prussia. For Serbia she would insist upon the cessation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the granting of a Serb port on the Adriatic. Hungary would also have to hand over Transylvania. The Slavs of Austria remaining, forming at present the two-thirds of the population, would have to be provided with self government and independence. Hungary, born of Transylvania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, would become a small, independent state. In the south Italy would ask for the cessation of the Italian province of Austria and a defensive frontier.

The result of granting all these demands would be to shear Germany and Austria-Hungary of much of their material and territorial greatness. For instance, with Alsace-Lorraine would go two-thirds of the German iron ore supply.

Left White House Without Decision

After an hour's conference with President Wilson last Saturday the 23 railroad presidents left the White House without giving any indication that they had abandoned their stand for arbitration, but with assurances that the negotiations were not ended. The railroad executives gave no final answer to the president's proposals. Taking Monday on them and see President Wilson again probably Monday.

Contrary to expectations and previous announcement, the railroad presidents went to the White House conference without their managers' committee.

World's Wheat Crop Less Than Last Year

The international Institute of agriculture says indications are that the world's wheat supply for 1916 will be almost 25 per cent less than last year. It is pointed out, however, that 1916 was a banner year, and that the new crop will be nearly up to the average yield between 1916 and 1919. The barley crop for the world is estimated at 30 per cent less than last year, although 5 per cent above the average, while the yield of oats is forecast at 22 per cent less than in 1915, but 15 per cent above the average.

British Cruiser Sunk In The North Sea

Two British light cruisers, the Nottingham and Falkmouth, were sunk Saturday in the North sea by German submarines while the vessels were searching for the German high seas fleet, according to an official statement issued by the admiralty shortly before midnight. One German submarine was destroyed by the British, while another was rammed and disabled, according to the admiralty statement.

CANADIAN WOMEN WORK IN MUNITION PLANTS
A Welland factory entering upon the manufacture of munitions advertised for 100 women workers. In ten days 170 women had offered their assistance. Some of the offers came from New York and other parts of the United States. The firm is hiring a trained nurse to look after the women's health. They offer 20 cents an hour to start and man's rate of pay after two weeks.

CAPT DANIEL IS AMONG THE WOUNDED

Was Redgliff's First Mayor
And Among First From
Here to Enlist--He is Well Known in This District

The casualty lists last Monday contained the name of Capt. Edward C. Daniels among the wounded.

Capt. Daniels was among the first to enlist from Redgliff, having joined the famous 101st battalion. He was a corporal in this battalion but was promoted after going to Valenciennes. He was a lieutenant. He went across to England with the 101st battalion on account of the surplus of officers he returned to Canada and secured a commission with a Winnipeg regiment, returning again to England.

He went over to France about four months ago where he remained till he was wounded. He is now in a hospital in England but it is not known yet how serious his wounds are.

Capt. Daniels was among the first settlers in Redgliff, having come here shortly after the town started, to manage the grist mill. He was greatly interested in the town and was our first mayor after incorporation.

The residence of his nearest kin is given as Benson, Minnesota.

HERE IS THE CHANCE.

The Senate of Canada has recently appointed a special committee to inquire into what is being done and what has been done to best promote the agricultural, industrial and trade interests of the country, both during and after the war. The duties of this committee as outlined in a circular which they are sending broadcast throughout Canada is to try to solve the questions of colonization, immigration, labor, employment for returned soldiers at the end of the war, improvement of highways, branch railway development, the attraction of capital in the country and the extension of trade relations.

In order to assist them in the solution of the many matters this commission is asking for assistance and suggestions of the press and other organized bodies in the country.

Because of conditions as they exist at present in this neck of the land we feel we are in a position to give some valuable information and suggestions to this committee. Suggestions which, if acted upon will go a long way towards solving many of the questions mentioned in the circular.

In the first place there is the question of agricultural development. Where in all Canada is there a better place to start this development than right here in this district? Here we have thousands of acres of vacant land which is not raising a blade of grain or feeding a 'hoof of stock. Every acre of this land is within a reasonable distance of the main lines of the C. P. R.; the district is liberally supplied with schools, churches and elevators; there is a system of reasonably good roads to every market and the question of fuel is already solved by the coal mine here which is already in operation. What more ideal spot could be found for this committee to do some good and lasting work? Why worry about the agricultural development of the untrodden portions of the Canadian west a thousand miles from nowhere, and with none of the modern conveniences, while these thousands of acres of vacant land, alongside of farms which last year produced from thirty to fifty bushels of wheat to the acre are coaxing and praying for development?

With the development of this land many of the other questions which are to occupy the attention of the committee will be solved. There will be no need to worry about improvement of highways, branch railway development, employment for soldiers, attraction of capital, etc. Some of these we already have here, the others will come as a natural consequence of the land development.

Then there is the question of industrial development and the extension of trade relations which this committee is supposed to look into. These, too, will come when the settlement of the land will create a demand for different articles, but the great obstacle which is at present retarding the industrial development of western Canada is the unfairness of rates charged by the railway companies. So long as the railways charge as much to ship manufactured goods from here to the Pacific coast towns as they do to ship the same goods from Montreal and other eastern points to the same destination, there is not much encouragement for industrial development in the west.

Let the committee start in at the bottom by solving this problem and the rest will be easy.

THE NEW REGULATIONS.

Since Alberta has already contributed five thousand more men to the colors than the number allotted to her to make up, the 500,000 from all Canada the new registering regulations should not have much effect on this province. There are other provinces in Canada with twice and three times the population of this province which have not as yet enrolled fit military recruits as Alberta. If the new regulations will have a tendency to make the "slacker" provinces come forward and do their bit they will be all right but if they will simply mean working a willing horse to death they will be all wrong.

If this 500,000 army is to be raised the time has come for some plain talking and for some definite action on the part of the military authorities which will equalize the recruiting.

Already Alberta towns are suffering because so many of their best men have joined the colors, and Redcliff is one of them. As a proof of this we only have to look at the large percentage of foreigners—citizens of enemy countries at that—who are now being employed in our manufacturing plants here. If the wheels are to be kept in motion this is absolutely necessary as there are no white men left to do this work.

Notwithstanding this we have no fault to find with what Alberta has done thus far. On the contrary we are proud of our record and of the actions of our gallant young men. But the question which arises and which much sooner or later be faced is how much farther can we go without seriously interfering with the work at home?

SOLDIERS' PENSIONS.

Just now complaints are heard from all quarters about the present schedule of soldiers' pensions. It is felt that there is too big a difference between the pensions paid officers and those paid to privates.

While there may be some excuse for a difference in ordinary pay between officers and men the Review can find no reason for any difference in the pensions, or at least for such a big difference. When it comes to the winning of battles as much depends on the privates as on the officers. In fact it may be said that more depends on them as there are more of them. Officers may lay out their plan of campaign very skillfully but unless the privates carry out those plans it profits nothing.

In military countries where officers spend the best part of their lives in training to qualify them for the positions they hold, there may be some excuse for a difference both in pay and pensions, but in Canada where officers are created over night and where we have experienced warriors in the ranks, the system is outrageous.

Surely our private soldiers are sacrificing as much as our officers when they volunteer their services, and surely their wives and children are entitled to a good living after they are gone as are the wives and children of officers.

It is now stated that as a result of the recent miners' strike there is a probability of a coal shortage this winter. This will not affect our town any, as our natural gas obviates any worry from the prospect, but it might be wise of those in the underground district would lay in this winter's supply as soon as possible.

Down in that Toronto by-election the candidate who came out straight for prohibition got 446 votes; the candidate who first refused to have anything to do with it but afterwards supported the Ontario temperance act got 2,062 votes; and the candidate who declared that "prohibition was not an honest issue" was elected with 2,705 votes. And still our Toronto friends when touring the west swell out their chests and tell us they come from "Toronto, the Good." After their tour of the west Toronto clergymen go back and tell their congregations about the ungodly west where they make prohibition an honest issue and carry it by a majority of over 2 to 1.

The result of the by-election in Southwest Toronto, following so closely on the Conservative set-back in North Perth should furnish conclusive evidence that Premier Hearst is not the man for that position. There may be other reasons given for these setbacks in an endeavor to console the government, members and their supporters but there is no doubt in our minds that the main reason is Hearst. He is not a big enough man for the job and he furnishes but another example of the havoc wrought by federal interference in provincial affairs.

The action of Pope Benedict in declaring in favor of the Allies and in asking for the prayers of his cardinals in their behalf, will have a far reaching effect on many of the hitherto neutral powers. It should also have a quieting effect among the Nationalists and Sinn Feiners in Ireland, as well as show the growing popularity of the Allies and their cause.

It has been suggested to us by some farmers that it would be a good idea if our merchants would keep their places of business open in the evenings during the harvest season. They pointed out that it was almost impossible for them to get to town during the day once they start the binders going.

It is rumored that Germany will ask for the withdrawal of United States Ambassador Gerard from their country. Evidently Gerard has too humane a heart and conscience for the hellish Hun.

From day to day the news from all the battle fronts continues to be most favorable for the Allies. Last week there were advances reported almost daily and the same may be said so far this week.

A coyote was shot in Medicine Hat this week about a few weeks ago an antelope was killed in the same berg. Redcliff sports are indeed fortunate in being so convenient to this hunting ground.

Now that the weather appears to be settled it would be a good idea if the drag were run over the streets in town again. They are certainly very rough just now.

QUER BEETLES FOUND

BY MINER BEAR MARKS.
Beetles bearing Masonic and other markings that have proved a puzzle to the Carnegie Institute have been found by Fred Stein of the Stone mine, in the Cornucopia district in Oregon.

The insects are of the general type of the long-horned wood borer, but according to the Carnegie Institute there is no apparent variation from any hitherto known species.

The backs are black and the markings are traced about in white ink. Some markings form a combination of letters and Arabic numerals. Many have markings "W. O. G." Others have the Masonic emblem of a square and compass plainly discernible.

According to an official estimate made the Austrian losses on the Austrian lines on the Isonzo during the great Italian advance between August 6 and 14 exceeded 60,000 men and the number of prisoners captured by General Cadorna totalled 22,000.

Dutch refugees are practically unanimous in the opinion that the end of the war is a long way off. Their calculation is based largely upon the fact that the Prussian element in Germany still continues in undisputed control of the situation and the German people are still kept practically entirely ignorant of the progress of events.

President Wilson appealed to the railroad officials to abandon their insistence on arbitration of the dispute threatening a nation-wide strike, and to accept his plan of settlement, already agreed to by the employees, because in his opinion the railroads are continuing for a principle which it is seemingly impossible to apply to the present situation.

The following poem has been sent to the Review by T. Bright & Redcliff boys who left here for the front with the 31st battalion.

THE "IRON SIXTH."

Canada's golden gateway sent forth her gallant sons,
Who proudly marched with song and mirth, to face the German guns.
Where'er their duty called them, 'twas there they won their fame;
And on the scroll of honor is the twen'ty-seventh's name.

Yet farther west, and still her sons in Canada sending out,
The twenty-eighth battalion fights with never a fear or doubt.
From the head of Lake Superior and the province of golden wheat,
The boys are marching against the foe with never faltering feet.

B. G. has sent her quota, and the twenty-ninth is there,
Broad chested, stalwart manhood, out just to do and dare.
Vancouver's boys are marching, with steady step and true,
Determined all to "play the game" and see the whole thing through.

A breath of Calgary's city, flung where the fight is worst,
And more of Canada's manhood, in the gallant thirty-first.
From prairie land and city they answered to the call,
And bravely shouldered rifle lest the Empire's honor fall.

From Winnipeg's golden gateway to Vancouver's rainy shore,
Come Canadian men to keep the flag of the Empire to the fore.
From Kimmel down to Yreka, grown and where you will,
The "Iron Sixth" have paid toll and are bravely paying still.

Black and White Taffeta

"Say, friend, can't you spare me a dime? I haven't a cent in the world!"
"Neither have I, old man! What make of car did you buy?"

What Puzzled Him
Dauber, strolling through the village in search of possible subjects for his brush, discovered an extremely picturesque laborer.

"I say, man," he said, "would you really be a trial to you, darling?"
"The man looked up at him doubtfully."

"It sounds a nice easy way of getting money," he remarked; "but I'm wondering how I should get the paint off again."

Her Warning
He: "If I should tell you, dear, that my love for you had grown cold, that I had ceased to care for you, and that the happy time when I shall claim you as my own will never be, would it really be a trial to you, darling?"

She: "Yes, Percival, it would be such a trial to me!"

Rugby Player-Officers
Jack Macgill, twice captain of Toronto University rugby team; Jack Laish and Alex. Shively, who also figured on champion rugby teams at "Varsity," were officers in the 8th Battalion (Highlanders), who left Toronto. On the final medical inspection of their battalion only two were declared unfit for overseas.

The combination of black and white is very attractive. Here black taffeta and black and white striped taffeta are cleverly treated. The striped material is arranged in a taste effect, over which the black taffeta bouffant drapes falls. The bouffant is extremely simple, having long sleeves and low square neck, finished with touch of batiste embroidery.
